Butler's Strategy.

Many are absent on summer vacation, and cannot be back before that day, and the Butler men hope to profit by their absence. The action of the Committee is denounced as outrageous by Washburn men in this city.

LONDON, August 26.—The trial of the Bank of England forgers was brought to an end this afternoon. After Geo. Bidwell had concluded his examination of witnesses for the prosecution he delivered an address to the court in which he exonerated Austin Bidwell and [illegible] and Noyes from all complicity in the frauds and declared that he and George Macdonald were the only guilty ones. Macdonald then addressed the court, bearing out the statements of Bidwell. The case was then given to the jury, who after twenty minutes deliberation found all the accused guilty. Yesterday, about 12 miles west of Westgate the woman gave birth to a child which the man killed. The man has been arrested and is now in jail at Stillwater where he attempted suicide last night by hanging. The most horrible feature in the case is the fact that the man was the ostensible father of the mother of the child.

He says Mr. Casserly, with the same sentiments as Governor Booth, chose the wiser course not to place himself in direct antagonism with the party to which as a politician he owes allegiance. Scott is an eloquent speaker and his speech is listened to with attention by the audience.

Interior California.

SAN JUAN SOUTH, August 27.—Last evening about 7 o'clock eight men, the leader of whom is supposed to be Tiburcio Vasquez, went into Snyder's store at [illegible] and [illegible] $500 in checks [illegible]. They next went to Davis' hotel [illegible] where they committed three wanton murders. The victims offered no resistance. Mr. Davis was one of the victims.

GILROY, August 27.—News was received this morning that Tiburcio Basquez and his band had been murdering and robbing in the precincts of A. J. Snyder of the Tres Pinos. The facts are about as follows: At 8 o'clock Tuesday night eight Californians rode up to the store of Mr. Snyder, situated about twelve miles from Hollister, at the cross road from Tres Pinos to San Benito river. They dismounted and entered the store when some [illegible] in conversation, others occupied the attention of the clerk John Utzerth until everything seemed to be in readiness, when they drew revolvers, ordered the inmates of the store, some three or four, to lie down, which they did, and the robbers proceeded to bind their hands behind their backs and tie their legs together. While this was going on within the terrified prisoners were startled at the report of three pistol shots without, which proved to be a death knell to Mr. L. Davidson, proprietor of the hotel, George Redford, who had stopped there for the night, and a Portuguese sheep herder, name unknown. All three being outside the building, did not readily obey the commands of the robbers and were instantly killed, two shot through the breast and the other in the mouth or head. The robbers then proceeded to search for plunder. They then went to Snyder and released him on his promise to give up all his money, which he did, amounting to $300 in coin and several hundred dollars in checks and drafts. After completing their search for money and jewelry, having ransacked the money drawers and pockets of their victims they proceeded to dress themselves in Snyder's best clothes of which he had plenty. Only one of the band was masked and two or three are well known. After completing the robbery they took all the horses they could find and left, the most of them going towards San Benito. Davis leaves a wife. Sheriff Adams of this county and Sheriff Wasson of Monterey are now at the scene of the murder and will organize a posse for the purpose of capturing the murderers. Gov. Booth has offered a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the gang or any one of them.

SAN JOSE, August 27.—A Chinaman from San Francisco procured the arrest of the DuBois family on the charge of murder, who reported that the China boy had shot at one of the ladies and afterward killed himself. The testimony at the inquest showed that some holes in the girl's clothing, supposed to have been made by bullets, appeared to have been cut with scissors. Other parts of the testimony contradict the story of the family. DuBois owed the China boy between $400 and $500. The general belief in town is quite strong against DuBois. It is thought there may be violence from Chinamen if acquitted by the courts. The examination takes place on Friday.

The writer, after recapitulating many good things that have been derived from foreign countries, says: "But there are some things that are very bad, and the worst of all is the Christian religion. It is like a sea of blood, and the only thing to keep it back is the holy Sinto religion."

BUTLER'S BACK PAY DEFENSE.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. [illegible].—The Gazette [illegible] the [illegible] letter [illegible] Hon. Geo. F. Hoar, the leading portions of which are given below:

Sir: I received your paper of the [illegible] afternoon, which was wrapped up in a printed sheet with the heading, "Supplement." It consists of [illegible] which I do not think was ever contained within your covers before, and is signed Benjamin F. Butler. It is devoted to a defense of his conduct in regard to the raising of salaries by the last Congress, to a denunciation of the newspapers, republican and political, the clergy, Gov. Hawley, [illegible] distinguished gentlemen named Washburn, and the members of Congress who declined to receive back pay. I do not know that I shall be called upon to discuss any of these topics, or to dispute the truth of Gen. Butler's estimate of himself, although I never knew anybody else to say so much good of him as he has said in his letter, in an attack on the action of the Representatives of this district.

On the last day but one of the last Congress, gentlemen who had drawn and receipted for their pay in full month by month, voted themselves a large sum, nearly $5,000 apiece, as compensation for past service.

The measure and the arguments by which it was advocated made a radical change in the policy of the American people on this subject, taking the legislator out of the class of persons whose reward is chiefly the honor of rendering important public service and who are to receive from the Treasury only a frugal and honorable maintenance, and transferring them to the class of persons who are serving for hire.

A proposition to increase the salary of the President had been voted out of order by a majority of the Committee of the Whole, when moved as an amendment to an appropriation bill. The same thing, and largely by the same votes, was voted to be in order with the addition of the clause increasing the salaries of members of Congress. Under these circumstances I thought I ought to refuse to derive any personal advantage from the retroactive provision of the statute.

Previous Congresses had many times increased salaries, making the increase retroactive, and the men who had voted for and taken such compensation for past service had been sustained and honored by the people with full knowledge of the fact. The confidence placed in Congress by the Constitution is complete and absolute. But the present was an exercise of the power so gross, so uncalled for, so extreme, as to constitute an abuse of the confidence.

Instantly on the passage of the bill I determined not to receive the money. It was legally mine. It was placed by law to my credit, there to remain until I disposed of it in some way. I inquired of several of the leaders of the opposition to the measure what they proposed to do and was informed that they proposed to take the money; that if the salary had been reduced they must have submitted, and they saw no reason why they should not receive the money although they disapproved of the law. Under the circumstances it seemed to me that it was not just that while this district was to be taxed its share of the whole money which was drawn by the representatives of other districts the sum allotted to me should be put in the Treasury to go chiefly to the benefit of the same districts whose representatives had drawn like sums for themselves. I acted at once, within ten minutes after my return home, and not then having reason to believe that a single other representative proposed to decline this money. I did not then think nor do I now think the money was stolen or received in breach of a contract. I thought the voting it was a very objectionable and extreme exercise of an admitted constitutional power.

Let me not be misunderstood. It never occurred to me to set up my action as a standard for others. It never occurred to me that a disposition of this money otherwise improper, was rendered proper because it was a charity. I endeavored to determine the question where the money ought in justice to go as justly and equitably as I could under the circumstances. I supposed my important duty was not to touch it myself.

This seemed to me under the circumstances the most absolutely just disposition of the money that I could make. A district has no organization and no treasury. Mr. Senator Merrill, who represents a whole State, solved the difficulty with absolute accuracy by paying over his back pay to the State Treasury. Gen. Butler's plan of sending three cents apiece to every citizen did not occur to me.

I suppose Gen. Butler to be incapable of either believing or understanding that anybody can do anything in this world merely because he thinks it is right and without any selfish personal end. He charges me with a desire to buy glory, to devote the money to electioneering expenses, &c. How I could gain or ever expect to gain glory or credit by turning over this sum to one place rather than another, or what electioneering end could be attained by adding this small sum to the fund of a school for mechanics I cannot comprehend.

Gen. Butler's real grief arises from the opposition he is encountering in his plan to get possession of the Government of Massachusetts by a fraud on the Republican voters. A few other holders of feeble virtue whom he has succeeded in persuading that they are in danger from his revenge if they do not lend themselves to his schemes, a lavish expenditure of the competent private fortune—these are the instrumentalities by which he hopes to cheat the Republican voters of Massachusetts out of the honest expression of their will. I thank Gov. Washburn, an honest, able and true man.

Gen. Butler's [illegible] at the press, the clergy and [illegible] prominent men of his own party [illegible]. It is the common history of great malefactors that mankind are in league against them. There is no other man who has [illegible]. I commend to Ben Butler's reflection whether the fault is not in him rather than in them.

When Gen. Butler proposed to pay all our national debt in irredeemable paper, Gen. Grant silenced him with the ringing sentence of his inaugural, "Let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public place." Because he knew what he was trying to tempt this people to escape from a burden by a mean and base [illegible].

He quarrelled with Grant and Wilson and Colfax and Blaine and Andrews and Sumner and the Washburns and Bingham and Sherman and Dawes because he is quarrelsome. They have been compelled each in his own way to [illegible] punish him because he deserved to be whipped.

Gen. Butler has done, unless he is grossly imposed upon, two things well. He put back gold [illegible] New York in 1864 [illegible] with a United States army at his back he kept down rebellion in 1862. Massachusetts is not likely to stand in need of either of these [illegible]. But he never has accomplished anything else of much importance when he put his hand to it [illegible] by sheer blustering. The history of all his other attempts may be comprised in three words: swagger, quarrel, failure.

It would be hard to find a living supporter of Gen. Butler who will say that he deems him the most truthful, disinterested [illegible] to gratify both his ambition and his revenge. The men whom Gen. Butler will hear are the men whom he persuades [illegible].

I have only stated what is known to all intelligent [illegible] people will recognize the fidelity of the portrait I have drawn. [illegible]

THE CREATION ACCORDING TO THE MODOCS.—Joaquin Miller, in his book entitled Life Among the Modocs, has given some picturesque sketches of Indian life and traditions. Among much other interesting matter, he tells us that the idea of the creation of the world, as it was entertained by the Modocs, now verging on extinction in accordance with the demands of modern civilization, was this:

The Great Spirit made Mount Shasta first of all. He pushed down snow and ice from the skies through a hole which he made in the blue heavens by turning a stone round and round till he made this great mountain, then he stepped out of the clouds on to the mountain top, and descended and planted the trees all around by putting his finger on the ground. The sun melted the snow, and the water ran down and nurtured the trees and made the rivers. After that he made the fish for the rivers out of the small end of his staff. He made the birds by blowing some leaves which he took up from the ground among the trees. After that he made the beasts out of the remainder of his stick, but he made the grizzly bear out of the big end and made him master over all the others. Having done that the Great Spirit converted Mount Shasta into a wigwam, and its volcanic eruptions are the outcome of the fire that he lights in the center of the mountain. The development of man was [illegible]. The daughter of the Great Spirit venturing too far got astray and fell into the power of the grizzly bears and she was forced to marry one of them, and the red men were the fruit of the marriage. These red men were taken under the protection of the Great Spirit, but the grizzlies were punished by being compelled to walk on four feet, whereas before they had walked on two. To this day the grizzly bear is never slain by the red men, who recognize in him a sort of kinsman.

JENKINS ON THE PRESIDENT.—The President passed through this city on Thursday, but his doings seem for once to have escaped the attention of the vigilant editor of the World. We are authorized to make known the true facts relating to this visit. The President was met at the depot by the entire Custom House Ring, two members of which were condemned to solitary confinement for seven years because their books were not properly kept. The remains of the Ring, with [illegible] round their necks, then proceeded to the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where the President [illegible] Republican. The President then called for the editor of the Times and ordered him to begin a series of articles at once advocating Gen. Grant's re-election for a third term. He then partook of hashed baby and [illegible] Gen. Babcock to put Mayor Havemeyer in irons. Mr. Marsell was instructed to write three leading articles a day for the World with illustrations from back numbers of the [illegible] Gazette. Having dispatched the business the President took Gen. [illegible] by the ear and dragged him to Long Branch, where twelve horses and a chariot received Cæsar and carried him to his gorgeous mansion. These are the particulars of the President's little visit, and they will appear in the World in the course of [illegible] fortnight.—N. Y. Times.

THE TERRITORIES.

The telegraph office at Monticello, W. T., has been discontinued or removed.

The woolen mills at Dayton, W. T., will be in running order in a very few days.

The ground burnt over at Walla Walla last week is rapidly being covered with new buildings.

Mr. Louis Scholl has just completed the school census of Boise City. The number of children over 5 and under 21 years is 234. This is two less than last year.

Camp 16, of the N. P. R. R., is located near Gallagher's mill, within less than four miles of the terminus, with the grading all completed to that point, and the ties in course of rapid distribution along the line.

A letter from the Yellowstone expedition says a stir was created by the arrest of Gen. Custar by Gen. Stanley, and that Gen. Custar was marched in the rear of his command one whole day before he was released. Custar's men denounced the arrest as an act of tyranny, while Stanley's men sustained their commander.

The biggest fly story that we remember to have heard comes—not from a butcher or a hotel keeper—but from the proprietor of a sawmill, in Kittitass valley, who says that a few weeks since the flies became so large, numerous and bold that he was compelled to shut down the gate, stop the mill, and let the flies have it their own way, while he came away to escape. That mill will not be started up again until after the fly season is over.

A letter from Mr. Thomas Moore, who writes from Prescott, Arizona, under date of August 14th, among other things says: "We had an Indian excitement on a small scale yesterday, caused by the report that a number of Tonto Apaches had left the Verde reservation. Gen. Crook, with characteristic promptness, hurried off to the scene of the disturbance and this morning word is received from him that he anticipates a speedy and satisfactory adjustment of the difficulty."

There are twenty three miles of track to be laid between the Nisqually bridge and Tacoma, for which seven miles of iron are ready at Kalama to be transferred to the front, to be supplemented by the remainder with due dispatch. For a week past the graders have been at work within two miles of Tacoma and are nearing the "jumping off place" every day, which is expected to be accomplished in less than a couple of weeks. All the camps were consolidated at No. 16, and the force reduced to about 500 men, who are as many as can be conveniently employed on the "home stretch."

From the Walla Walla Union: "Dr. Goodwin returned from Yakima City a few days since, and says that on more than one day during the present summer the mercury has been up to 114° in the shade, and he also says that during this weather men worked [illegible] along in the harvest field, and seemed to suffer more than in ordinary hot weather. We are also informed that Indian Agent Wilbur has got the Indian who is supposed to have murdered one of his own tribe a short time since, and intends to keep him in the 'skookum house' until the next court sets, when he will deliver him up for trial for murder."

The Kalama Beacon of Monday last says: St. Andrew's Episcopal Chapel in this place was yesterday solemnly consecrated by Bishop Morris, assisted by Revs. J. R. W. Sellwood and John Rosenburg. The Bishop and clergy were received at the entrance of the chapel by Col. John R. Wheat, H. G. Struve and others, and proceeded up the aisle, into the chancel, repeating the 24th Psalm. Then the Rev. Mr. Sellwood read the request to Consecration, and Mr. Rosenburg the sentence of Consecration, after which the beautiful service of the Episcopal Church was read by the attending clergymen, when the Bishop preached a powerful sermon, suitable to the occasion, which was listened to by a large and devout congregation. His text was from the 122d Psalm and 1st verse, "I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord." The sermon ended, the Holy Communion was then administered.

The Lewiston Signal of last Saturday has this account of an affray which occurred in the upper portion of our county: Last week we mentioned an affray which had taken place on the Pataha in which Barney Ousley shot and wounded his brother-in-law. This latter gentleman's name is Downing, not Paley, as we gave it. Barney Ousley came up to Lewiston and remained in town a couple of days. On Thursday an officer followed him and swore out a complaint in order to hold him in custody in this Territory until a requisition could be obtained from the Governor of Washington. On being brought before Judge Adams, Ousley stated that he was ready to go back into Walla Walla county and be examined before the proper officers. Upon his promise to go quietly with the officer into Washington Territory, he was discharged and returned to the Pataha the same day. From him we learn as follows regarding the difficulty: It appears from his statement that a man named Orburton and himself were having some trouble, and Orburton took off his coat and approached Ousley in a menacing manner. After trying to keep out of the way for some time, Ousley drew his pistol and told him to keep off or he would shoot. The other fellow advanced, and thereupon made a dive for Barney. At this juncture friends interfered and Downing, in trying to take the pistol from Ousley, discharged it, the ball entering Joe Milom's leg just above the knee, inflicting a severe but not dangerous wound.

PROTESTANTS MASSACRED WHILE AT WORSHIP IN SAN PEDRO, MEXICO.—In the town of Zaragozo there has been committed one of those crimes of which civilized society trembles with indignation. On 6th of last month about thirty Protestants of both sexes were engaged in worship on the street of San Pedro. Suddenly they were called to the door of their church. The citizen Julian Hernandez went forth and opened the door to those who were calling, when a band of assassins fell upon him with their daggers, leaving him dead in the act. They mortally wounded the citizens Pablo Apolonia Cortes and Francisco Carvajal. They then beat all the rest and broke up all the furniture there was in the church. They put out the lights and maltreated and violated the women.

This iniquitous crime without example in our religious history has remained without punishment by the Government of Puebla. The Protestant citizens petitioned for protection from the police and this was denied and they were left in the hands of a furious band of fanatics, frantic in their barbarity to add another crime to their actions. Many suppose that this crime has been permitted by the Government of Puebla and the traitors to the country who for its support, because justice has been denied to the citizens who were assaulted, while the bandits and red handed assassins have been left free.

What has passed in Puebla is without a name. This Government has laid aside the mask and has committed itself to every kind of excess. It has trampled upon the law and sentenced a society to death. If the general Government does not apply a remedy to the situation in Puebla it will be the duty of the other States to form an alliance, and to liberate the people from barbarism as Europe united against the bandits of Argel. We shall await to see what the official organ of that Government will have to say in relation to the [illegible] punishment of this crime, without example.

OREGON.

T. J. Peabody is to resume the position of agent for the O. S. N. Co. at Umatilla.

The streets of Salem were enlivened by the appearance of numerous farmers this week, whom the rain gave leisure to visit.

The warehouse of E. N. Thomas at Jefferson is now finished and large quantities of grain are daily received. It separates and elevates by horse power at the rate of 200 bushels per hour.

The reports from the interior of the State say that the wheat crop has been as yet but little damaged by the rain, but should we not have clear weather very soon the loss must be considerable.

The hanging to extort a confession of theft, reported a few days ago, took place in Polk county instead of Yamhill. We make this correction in justice to the latter, for if the facts are as told the affair is no credit to any law-abiding community.

The new road from Summerville, in Grande Ronde Valley, across the Blue Mountains, to Walla Walla, is [illegible] for wagon travel. Those who have ridden through this summer say that the distance from Summerville to Walla Walla is not more than 50 or 55 miles, and that it does not require a very good saddle horse to carry a man over the road in one day.

An account is given in Wednesday's Statesman of an attempt [illegible] by [illegible], who ought to be [illegible] to burn farms and farm houses on Howell Prairie, some 12 miles from Salem. The fire burned within about 50 yards of F. M. Woodworth's fence, and was [illegible] fortunately [illegible]. There seems no doubt that the fire was [illegible] kindled. The retribution will be swift in its power upon the incendiary who is detected in Oregon if [illegible] things are [illegible].

The [illegible] of Wednesday has this: The following dispatch was received last evening: "On the R[illegible], Aug. 26th. A man named Slater was shot at Jefferson by Chas. Miller, from Linn county, to-day. It seems they had a quarrel. After getting through with [illegible] Miller [illegible] his [illegible] and [illegible] Dr. Rice, of Albany, came down to attend the wounded man." We learn from a gentleman who left [illegible] that the [illegible] was shot in the right side and it is thought fatally wounded.

THURSDAY MORNING AUGUST 28 1873

THE VIENNA DEFICIT

When Francis Joseph, Emperor of Austria, summoned Baron Schwartz from his banquet of horse flesh in beleaguered Paris to create the Universal Exhibition of 1873, he gave him carte blanche on the Imperial Treasury, commanding him with the usual terseness of royal autographs to make this the grandest and most imposing display of the century. The faithful Baron went to his task with a remarkable degree of self possession. Armies of artisans were summoned from every part of the Empire; all the resources of inventive genius were laid under contribution; money was spent with a lavish prodigality that must have been extremely agonizing to the average taxpayer—who is much the same the world over, being always "hypersensitive" to the publican—and very soon the Prater began to take on a cosmopolitan look. A huge building of iron and glass and wood; within, mosque and cathedral, Swiss chalet and French renaissance, Italian art, American machinery, sturdy English studies in the physical sciences; all the activities of the globe miniatured and in full whirl above a massive dome surmounting the Babel below—this was the "creation" of Baron Schwartz on the day when it was first thrown open for the inspection of the Emperor. The great Exhibition first became a costly fact on the first day of May, 1873. Doubtless it was the intention of the royal designer to make this "the maddest, merriest day" in all the calendar of his house. There was a grand procession, a speech from Archduke Charles, a response from His Majesty, an echo from shrill voiced Auersperg, buzz of applause, faint waifs of music, the Emperor walks through the departments, viewing the symbols "of a world-round humanity, always bowing sadly," with him, blue-eyed Arthur, the Prince of Wales dreaming, perhaps, of flagon and stoup, after these retinues, flunkeys and Herald correspondents. "I declare the World's Exposition of 1873 open!" Baron, behold your creation!

Meanwhile in far-off lands the world stands a-tiptoe with expectation. And very soon it hears that the augurs are oppressed with omens: the day is murky, the skies lower, fierce winds sweep through the bleak Pantheon of Industry. The Emperor is melancholy. Perhaps he is thinking of Sadowa. Herald correspondents are apprehensive; even Auerbach speaks dismally from the depths of the Black Forest. At no time can it be said Francis Joseph is in a mood to look about him and exclaim, "Behold great Babylon which I have builded!" Everywhere the work is behindhand. One nation at least is in disgrace, the flag of the Republic droops, [illegible] down, over a closed American department. Despite the taxes Germania cheers lustily, but every Yankee's heart beats unceasingly to the tune of "The Rogue's March." For three months this thing endures like a smothered imprecation. Gradually this cat of a truth peeps above the Viennese mud, the World's Exposition is all awry. And what has it cost? In round numbers, $9,108,000! And the gross revenue has been $1,518,000. So that when next Francis Joseph shall be found, like Mother Goose's King, "in the parlor counting up his money," a Herald correspondent, peeping slyly over the monarch's shoulder may behold a document of this kind, over which His Majesty may be vexing his simple soul:

Taxpayers of Austria—

	On acct of F. J., Dr
To 1 Grand Exposition	$9 108 000 00
	Cr
By Cash, per Schwartz	1,518,000 00
Deficit	$7,590 000 00

Baron Schwartz, behold your creation!

There are several little items not taken into consideration in the above, which might with profit—or loss—be counted in. We refer to the visits of the Czar of all the Russias, Kaiser Wilhelm, the Shah and other minor personages of note for whose entertainment the Austrian purse must bleed. Numerous diplomas and medals were awarded; there are heart-burnings and jealousies, some international, perhaps, many personal, at any rate; and then as Americans, we can't help thinking of that disgraced union jack. There was a dead loss to our national reputation—a wound which any number of gorgeous vellum plasters may neither heal nor hide.

Herr Schwartz has indeed "created"—an enormous deficit. But then there is the glory of the thing. Ah! we had not thought of that. It may serve to help His Majesty along in algebra by aiding him to understand the value of a minus quantity. To the strict economist there is also the compensatory reflection that the nine millions go to the artisans and the mechanics; that is the taxpayer's cataplasm. There remains, moreover, to the Emperor, a mammoth structure of wood, iron and glass. What will he do with it?

Ex Mayor Frank McCoppin of San Francisco has written a letter declining the Democratic nomination for State Senator, in which he feelingly remarks that "great principles and effulgent ideas bring parties into life, but obedience to the will of the majority is necessary to prolong their existence and to maintain their usefulness; and whenever the minority after the majority has expressed its will through conventions prolongs the strife at the ballot box, then the party divides and perishes." He concedes that a minority of the San Francisco Democracy is doing this fatal thing, and argues therefrom that what was once an organization powerful and vital enough to elect him to the Mayoralty of San Francisco is now a cold, lifeless, defunct corpse. There are other quondam Democrats, however, who cannot coincide with McCoppin's frank but lugubrious view of the party. They gaze on its cadaverous features, murmur something about its going through a kind of aestivation, and like veritable Knights of La Mancha, mount the poor Rosinante of Centralization to go forth in bootless quest of office.

One would suppose that the practice of liberally endowing a political party with cash just before an election is so ancient that it would be no longer a matter of wonder. But a shrewd disciple of General Butler, noting about the politics of Massachusetts, will get the Yankee curiosity astir by asserting that a fund of a quarter of a million of dollars has been raised in Boston to accomplish the defeat of General Butler. One Boston capitalist has subscribed $100,000. This correspondent is sadly shocked, and he asks in agonized rhetoric what the country is coming to when such an enormous corruption fund is allowed to [illegible] the politics of the old Bay State. It is a very interesting as well as perplexing query.

We learn from various sources that the order of the Patrons of Husbandry is received with considerable favor by many of our farming communities in this State. Mr Carr, who has been traveling through this State organizing Granges of the Order, writes to the Rural Press from Albany, August 11th, that "we have now in Oregon 36 Granges, and soon will number many more. I shall not organize their State Grange for four weeks yet, and may organize Washington Territory first." In several instances—as at Junction City—the farmers have adopted the cooperative plan of building warehouses and storing grains.

A Cuban correspondent relates an incident illustrating the exact meaning of freedom of the press in Havana. For a long time the conservative and republican press have been waging a fierce war. The Tribune was a conservative sheet. In one issue it denounced a certain Colonel of artillery as a Carlist. This Colonel at once went to Captain General Pieltain and informed him that if the Tribune were not at once suppressed he and his men would lay down their arms. The sheet was suppressed, but it was not annihilated. It is to be resuscitated under the name of Gorro Frigio, which means The Red Cap of Liberty.

Roland, the entertaining Boston correspondent of the Sacramento Union, relates an incident connected with Henry Ward Beecher's recent visit to Boston, which is too good to be lost. A little party—among others several clergymen—was gathered at General Claflin's house. The theme of conversation being sermons—"What is a sermon?" asked Beecher. No one ventured to answer for a minute or two. Then Fred B Perkins, editor of Old and New, replied: "A sermon is that part of divine services which has nothing to do with the worship of God." That is quite as good as Talleyrand's best.

The California State Fair begins in Sacramento, September 15th. A large premium list aggregating $40,000 is offered. In addition, the Society awards its golden medal to the best exhibition in each class. The Central Pacific Railway Company offers to transport free of charge all goods intended for exhibition. Wells, Fargo & Co will also deliver without charge all packages not weighing over thirty pounds. An immense attendance is predicted by California papers.

The Pittsburg Gazette, one of our best exchanges, has just been bought from the former proprietor, A Wright, by a joint stock company with a capital of $30,000. Col Robinson is President of the company, D S Alexander is managing editor, and John Grafton, recently ticket agent of the Fort Wayne, Miami and Cincinnati Railway, is business manager. We wish the Gazette much prosperity under its new management.

OPINION OF A DEMOCRAT ON OHIO DEMOCRACY.

The Chicago Times, the leading Democratic paper of the West, has a long editorial denouncing the Ohio movement, of which the following is the introduction:

> At last, the "unterrified" Bourbon politicians in Ohio have found an antagonist of their own size. Bullies by nature, while the overgrown Republican party appeared as the only antagonist in the field, they had no stomach for battle. Yet they were not afraid! They were "unterrified," "unconquerable," "invincible,"—only they wanted a smaller antagonist, one of their own size, or, if they could have their choice, one somewhat under their own size. Against an antagonist feebler than themselves they felt that no Ajax could be more valiant than they would be, no Captain Bobadil, slaughtering unarmed fishermen, no Phil. Sheridan butchering Piegan squaws and pappooses, could perform more miraculous deeds of lofty daring! Well, the Columbus Convention of Independents brought into the political arena a new antagonist. "Eureka!" cried the unterrified Bourbons; "Behold the new comer: he is a little fellow; a weak, puny, insignificant and contemptible little fellow; we can whip him; let us go for him!" And over all the hills and dales of Ohio the Bourbon cry resounded: "Here is a little fellow that we can whip; let us go for him!" Then did the Bourbon graves give up their dead. Then did the fossil relics of the dead past rattle their skeleton members in eagerness for the combat. Then from north, from south, from east, from west, in serried ranks of sepulchral ghastliness, came marching to Columbus the unterrified army of ancient fossils. And Allen G. Thurman commanded the mouldy array.

SINGULAR CAUSE OF DEATH.—William Dodd, a citizen of Newark, N. J., recently died from a somewhat remarkable cause. When a boy deceased swallowed a beard of wheat, which by some means entered his lung and caused his death. He suffered constantly for three years, but at the end of that time coughed it up, and afterwards recovered and enjoyed robust health. At the beginning of this year a sudden strain reopened the old wound, which prevented him swallowing, as food would pass into his lung, so that he was literally starved to death. Deceased was 51 years of age.

offering the best security of any Fire Insurance Company or Association in the world.

THIRD—It can carry large risks, as its policies are reinsured by the above mentioned Companies, so that the PHENIX alone can carry the same line that all three Companies would take separately.

FOURTH—It requires but one set of proofs in case of loss, thus giving the security of three Companies without the trouble of dealing with separate Corporations.

On these solid merits, viz: Capacity to carry the largest risks, the amplest possible security, the simplest adjustment in case of loss, and the prompt and equitable payment of all just claims,

The Phœnix Insurance Company solicits your Patronage.

CITY.

LATITUDE AND LONGITUDE.—A small temporary wooden observatory together with a number of surveying instruments and apparatus for determining the latitude and longitude were shipped down to Kalama this morning. A gentleman attached to the United States Coast Survey of which Prof Davidson is the manager went down with these instruments. His object is to determine the exact latitude and longitude of Kalama. This question having been accurately decided that point will serve as a base or starting point by which the latitude and longitude of various other points down the Columbia will be determined. Mr Rockwell also connected with the Coast Survey is engaged in making surveys down the Columbia below Kalama. When the exact locality of this place is determined Mr Rockwell will have no difficulty in locating other places. It will require probably a month to ascertain the latitude and longitude of Kalama. Longitude can be traced only by means of telegraphic communication between that place and San Francisco. Latitude however can only be determined by observations taken of the heavens and movements of the stars. To determine this point with an unmistakable accuracy will require six or seven clear cloudless nights. At the present unsettled state of the weather it may be several weeks before that number of nights can be obtained. The observatory will be set up to-day and observations will be taken until these questionable points shall have been settled.

AN INVENTION.—Mr John Q Welch, of Oswego exhibited yesterday morning a patent fire proof hose of his own invention. This invention consists of sections of wrought-iron pipe three inches in diameter joined together to the length of 100 feet more or less, as may be desired. This pipe is mounted on wheels and can be rolled backwards or forward according to circumstances. One end of the pipe is reduced in size and assumes a nozzle-like shape. By means of small chains and pulleys this nozzle can be turned in any direction. At the larger end of the pipe a pliable hose, of rubber or leather, is attached, which is connected with a hand or steam fire engine. The advantage claimed by the inventor is this: At times during great conflagrations this mounted fire proof hose can be placed in positions where the intense heat would not permit firemen to occupy. The iron hose could be turned in any direction by the chains and pulleys and the element combated with greater success than under the ordinary modes. The invention is certainly a novel one and there appears no good reason why it may not be feasible in its practical operations. Mr Welch has already applied for a patent.

A FINE SAFE.—Wm B Wilshire Esq agent for Hall Safe and Lock Company has just put in position in the First National Bank two massive safes—one to be used as a special deposit safe the other for a coin safe. The latter is one of the largest and finest on this coast. It has double folding doors and all is made of eight plates—five iron and three steel—making a combined thickness of three and one half inches, and all made with dovetail on top bottom and sides. The weight of this safe is twelve thousand pounds. It has on the left hand door a Hall's six tumbler Victor Lock and on the right a double Premier twelve tumbler Lock. The locks are so arranged that three persons may be required to be present to open the safe. The object of this is to prevent burglars compelling one person to visit the bank after night and demanding him to open the safe, as has been done in several instances. The handles controlling the bolts, through a peculiar mechanism, are entirely detached when the safe is locked and lose all control of the bolts. Since the arrival of Mr Wilshire here, he has sold in this city and State twenty-five safes to many of our large merchants.

AID FROM AFAR.—From Prescott, Arizona comes a letter of sympathy for those of our citizens who suffered by the fire of the 2d inst. The writer not only tenders his sympathy but also sends something more substantial to those who need it. But we will give his own words simply stating that the letter is dated August 14th, addressed to the editor of the WEEKLY OREGONIAN and that the postal order mentioned was duly received and will be placed as directed. An extract reads, "I see by the San Francisco papers of the 4th that Portland has again been visited by a destructive fire, exceeding that of last winter. To the sufferers I tender my sympathy, and as a slight token of its earnestness please find enclosed a post office order for $25 which I wish you to use as in your judgment may seem best." Such men as Thomas Moore, for that is the name of the author of the letter, are not found everywhere who will thus unsolicited from such a distant land, remember and relieve the distressed. His name like many others who have aided in preventing actual want by our late disaster, will long be remembered.

ONE DUCK.—Hunting ducks is far less hazardous than hunting Modoc Indians but it is frequently attended with less success. Only the other day Col Sumner and Major Boyle, both of Gen Davis' staff went out on a hunting expedition for ducks. After a long fatiguing tramp over hill and dale, through the tangled wild woods and marshes amidst the untamed solitudes of nature the hunters returned wearied and disgusted with their success. One small duck which had fallen a prey to the ruthless rapacity of Major Boyle and the unerring aim of his rifle was the only visible fruits of the day's chase. Both these gentlemanly officers have rendered valiant and meritorious services in behalf of the country but in this instance their raid after aquatic fowls has been singularly unsuccessful. At an early and favorable opportunity these gentlemen propose to retrieve their tarnished reputations, and show some of our boasting duck hunters that the goddess of the chase can also smile on their efforts.

THE ICE FACTORY.—Our young friend Chas Brown whose ice factory was totally destroyed on that Black Saturday, has not been deficient in pluck and enterprise. Scarcely had the smoke cleared away from the ruins when several men were set to work to clear away the blackened debris, and prepare for laying the foundation of another building. Carpenters fell spiritedly to work and soon another building larger than the first, rose on the same site. This structure is rapidly progressing towards completion and will be finished in a week. The machinery, boiler etc have sustained but slight damage and will soon be ready for service. By the steamer Oriflamme a large quantity of lead pipe conveying apparatus etc arrived and will be set up soon. Within a month from date Mr Brown's factory will be ready to turn out ice again.

TEAM DROWNED.—A gentleman who came down on the west side train yesterday has laid us under obligations for the following particulars concerning the drowning of a valuable span of mares belonging to Capt W S Powell of Dayton in the Yamhill river a few days ago. At the time the team was employed in hauling lumber for the bridge which is in process of erection over the Yamhill at Dayton. While descending the steep bank toward the stream with a heavy load suddenly the neckyoke broke. This caused the wagon to run forward with great force. The animals not being able to hold back were forced into the water and drowned. Two men were on the wagon at the time of the accident but could do nothing toward saving the team. But a few days previous Captain Powell had refused $500 for the span.

CONVOCATION.—The Annual Convocation of the Episcopal Church for the Diocese of Oregon Washington and Idaho Territories will convene [illegible] Chapel corner of Sixth and Oak streets. The following will be the order of services during the Convocation:

Thursday 28th 7:30 P M—Opening services and the Bishop's Annual Address.

Friday 29th [illegible] A M—Morning prayer [illegible] P M evening prayer [illegible]

Saturday 30th [illegible] A M—Morning prayer [illegible] evening Bishop's Reception.

Sunday 31st 11 A M—Consecration of the new Church; [illegible] P M children's service; 7:30 P M Missionary meeting.

APPOINTMENTS.—Although entitled to three aids-de-camp, Gen Jeff C Davis has yet appointed but two. Since Gen Davis arrived here and established himself at the Headquarters of the Department he has designated as his aids Col Sumner and Major Boyle. The third has not yet been appointed and probably will not be unless the General should deem it necessary.

AT CALLAO.—A letter was received recently from William Dearborff son of the late Captain Dearborff who is now in South America. The letter was written at Callao. The writer from his letter evidently is not well satisfied with his surroundings. He had returned from a trip to the interior but a short time previous to the writing of the letter. He was not favorably impressed with the climate. In the interior some distance from the coast he found the air so rarified as to be injurious to the respiratory organs. Twice he felt sick and was obliged to return to Callao. He is displeased with the country generally and proposed to return home this fall.

PUBLIC LECTURE.—We learn that Rev Bishop Peck of the M E Church will lecture in our city on next Monday evening. The reputation of this gentleman as an eloquent and able speaker is well known on this coast and the mere announcement that he is to speak is sufficient to draw a full house in any community where he is known. His subject will be "Science and the Spirit World" and the lecture will begin at 8 o'clock at the Taylor street Church. All are respectfully invited to attend and we are confident that the audience will enjoy a very rare intellectual treat.

SERMON BY BISHOP PECK.—Arrangements have been made with this eminent divine who reached the city on the last steamer by which he will deliver a sermon at the Taylor street M E Church on Sunday morning. Bishop Peck is regarded as one of the most profound thinkers on the coast an able theologian and a powerful speaker. This is the first visit of Bishop Peck to Portland. It is probably the only sermon which he will have an opportunity of delivering before his departure. His well known power and eloquence as a speaker will secure an immense congregation.

REQUESTED TO RETURN.—At a late meeting held by the Board of Stewards of the Taylor street M E Church at the Quarterly Conference it was unanimously resolved that the Annual Conference be requested to return the Rev G W Izer to the pastorate of that Church for another year. It is quite probable this request will be complied with and that Mr Izer will have the privilege of ministering spiritual instruction to the congregation to which he has so endeared himself during the two past years of arduous labor for the coming Conference year.

SOLDIERS.—About one dozen soldiers arrived on the Oriflamme from below. These soldiers are a fragment of Company K of the Twenty first Infantry, which were left behind, the remainder of the Company having arrived here some time ago. They came from Fort Halleck, Nevada where they have been stationed some time. Yesterday afternoon the soldiers went over to Vancouver on the Circe. From that post they will soon be sent to Walla Walla.

SOCIAL GATHERING.—A large number of people were present at the Taylor street Church last evening at the social tendered by the friends of the Rev Dr Izer. The evening was spent in a most pleasant manner by friendly converse and greetings. The ladies had a generous collation spread consisting of ice cream cakes, coffee fruit etc which were dealt out to all who desired to partake. The whole affair was much enjoyed by all present.

LARGE FREIGHT.—On the last trip of the Oriflamme to this port 600 tons of assorted cargo were brought from San Francisco. This is by far the largest freight which has been brought to Portland by any of the steamers for the last ten months. Every available space about the steamer was crowded full, and she was drawing all the water which the stage of the river would allow.

REAL ESTATE.—A B Richardson sold at auction yesterday morning the following parcels of real estate: Lots 3 and 4, in block 134 for $5,000.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The public schools of the city will open on next Monday morning.

PERSONAL.

Col C H Larrabee arrived on the last steamer from San Francisco and is now in the city.

Mr G Shindler of the firm of Hurgren & Shindler, returned from San Francisco by the Oriflamme.

Mr Waterbury, Treasurer of Lewis county, W T, is in town on official business. He looks hale and hearty.

Superintendent Hoyt of the Salem Woolen Mills, R P Earhart of the Indian Department, and Chester N Terry of Salem are all in the city.

We acknowledge a call yesterday from the Rev H C Benson D D editor of the California Christian Advocate, who arrived on the Oriflamme, to attend the Annual Session of the Methodist Conference.

This evening, Madame Anna Bishop and troupe will arrive from a professional tour of the Sound and British Columbia. To-morrow evening she will make her debut at Masonic Hall in a number of splendid vocal selections.

Bishop Peck arrived on the last steamer from San Francisco. He comes to preside at the deliberations of the M E Conference. As this body will not convene at Olympia until next Wednesday, Bishop Peck, accompanied by Rev Dr Benson will visit Salem on Monday, returning here on the following day.

This evening for the first time during the present season, Wilson's Grand Parisian Circus will give an exhibition in Portland. Everywhere the public and press speak in eulogistic terms of the exhibition. It is a very large powerful combination and is no doubt one of the largest and best companies of which John Wilson has yet had the control. The exhibition this evening gives promise of being one of the best which we have yet had in the city, and those who have the means to spare should not let the opportunity pass by unimproved.

PEOPLE'S PROTECTIVE ALLIANCE.

The People's Protective Alliance held a meeting at their hall on Tuesday evening.

The meeting was called to order by the President Mr C F DuBois.

In the absence of the Secretary Mr [illegible] Norden was requested to act as Secretary pro tem who immediately took his seat.

The next order of business was the reading of the Alliance Pledge and receiving new members after which Mr M O'Connor and J W Keller signed the pledge and were made members.

It was moved and seconded that the offices of Corresponding Secretary Financial Secretary and Treasurer be declared vacant which was carried. And to fill these vacancies Mr F J Ryan was appointed to fill the office of Corresponding Secretary Mr W J Mayfield to fill the office of Financial Secretary and Mr John [illegible] to fill the office of Treasurer.

On motion of Mr [illegible] the word Tuesday in the By laws regarding regular meetings was stricken out and Friday substituted. The motion continued the clause Friday week therefore the next regular meeting will be next Friday week.

On motion of Mr Carroll the thanks of the Alliance were tendered to Mr [illegible] for the eloquent and able address.

On motion the Chair was authorized to appoint a committee of five for the purpose of securing a permanent hall and the following gentlemen were named: Messrs [illegible] Carroll Mayfield Calahan and DuBois.

On motion the meeting adjourned to meet a week from next Friday.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL.

Madame Stevenson will go down to Astoria in a few days for the purpose of giving one or more concerts at that place. She will probably visit Olympia before her return. Mr [illegible] the agent went down the river yesterday to make arrangements for the [illegible] of that lady.

Some people may become excited over the [illegible] of the Northern Pacific Railroad [illegible] but it does not affect Beck & Wellman corner Front and Washington streets in the least as they intend to pursue their usual course to their customers and that is to sell goods at prices which will enable those with limited means to provide themselves with good clothing at a very small outlay of money. Parents should bring their children to this house for neat fitting suits.

AMUSEMENTS.

Circus this evening.

Madame Bishop to-morrow evening.

East Portland Park will be thrown open on next Sunday to the public for an exhibition of [illegible]. The Howard Brothers and the celebrated Harry Clark will exhibit their muscular training exercises consisting of various feats and tricks. There will also be a [illegible] performance and a night [illegible] ascension. Mr Howard will also perform his wonderful act entitled "Mazeppa's [illegible]." He will also exhibit the talking head which has [illegible].

Upon the arrival of the Salem express last evening the Portland Turn Verein Society took in charge delegations from the Salem and Oregon City Societies. Headed by the City Brass Band they marched to the ferry and as soon as the boat touched the west side the line was formed again and the procession moved up Front street to Morrison thence down First street to Ankeny's Hall where the extra accoutrements were [illegible] and the members of the societies were taught to spend the time pleasantly until the opening of the hall in the evening in various ways. Although the affair was well advertised the attendance was not as large as anticipated the hall being scarcely half filled. Under the direction of Mr Carl Bosco a platform was erected at the western end of the hall and with the aid of flags muslin and boughs a stage was formed in a creditable style both as to finish and capacity. The first part consisted of singing by the musical portion of the Portland Turn Verein groupings and gymnastic feats by the members a trapeze act neatly executed by Miller and Marks—the whole interspersed with music by the City Brass Band. This band has improved wonderfully and if they continue to practice together their future success is guaranteed. The Niagara Leap in which Miller and Schiffman were to be the leading actors was omitted. A portion of this thrilling act had been performed when the latter gentleman signified his inability to continue the act on account of having a sprained foot which pained him so much that he feared an accident should he attempt to perform the act. Many regretted this as the feat promised to be the most interesting portion of the programme. Mr Bosco came forward made due apology and a portion of the audience retired—the lovers of the terpsichorean art remaining. When we left several sets had formed, the band began to play and the figure caller was directing the participants through the various movements of the quadrille. Waltzes polkas, galops lancers etc followed the ball closing at a late hour. Although the attendance was small we presume a large number of tickets were sold and we expect to report in a few days a good sum netted from the affair which will help materially in swelling the funds in the hands of the Relief Committee. The Portland Turn Verein Society deserves great credit for donating the proceeds of this anniversary festival to the relief of the sufferers by the fire of August 2d.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Resurrect your heavy clothing.

This is the week of amusements.

The Board of Equalization is still in session.

The Turners were out in full force last evening.

Trinity Church will be consecrated on next Sunday.

New and large frame is being built on the vacant lot adjoining the City Stables.

Stone, the jeweler smiles. He has a handsome store and elegant goods and that is the cause of it.

One hundred head of sheep were shipped yesterday morning to Kalama—destination railroad camps.

Captain Babbidge says the Annie Stewart handles better than the Dixie Thompson but don't make as good time.

Work on the Oneatta, now lying opposite the city—either Portland or East Portland as suits you best—not yet commenced.

The average pleasure seeker will not complain of a dearth of amusement this week. Nightly attractions ever since last Tuesday.

The steamer Maria Wilkens arrived from St Helens yesterday with her flag at half mast. It was occasioned by the death of Mrs Giltner of that place.

Miller and Marks are the happiest couple among the Turners. They know how to perform on the "flying trapeze," and innumerable gymnastic feats.

It is said that a little smearing of a boot with soap will prevent the leather from creaking. Our devil wants to give a whole box of soap to the fellow who comes to a place of amusement late with a pair of musical brogans.

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

The Pioneer Club have accepted the defi of a picked nine from the Pacific and Clackamas Clubs with the understanding that the nine be composed of the players named in the challenge.

What have the College Club to say about the game between that Club and the Pioneers? Come to time boys and settle the championship question. Let us have another game before Fair time.

At a special meeting of the Pioneer Club held on Tuesday evening G A Morton Jos Buchtel and John Bird were selected as delegates to represent the club in the Tournament Convention.

The Pacific Club at a special meeting held on Tuesday evening elected H Cushing Al Raleigh and H Chapman delegates to the Convention to be held on Saturday. Robert Austin was chosen Captain of the picked nine that play the Pioneers next Saturday.

TO THE PUBLIC.

We are now getting on the way a new and fresh stock of fine furniture which will be superior in quality and newer in design than the one destroyed by the fire and which we will offer for sale on advantageous terms. Meanwhile we are well prepared to supply the present demand from our temporary location corner of Fifth and Taylor streets near the U S Custom House. Respectfully

COLEMAN'S EUCALYPTUS

Dr J S Coleman's Compound Extract of Eucalyptus is a preparation combining all the valuable medical qualities of the Eucalyptus which is cultivated in nearly every California garden for its medical utility having become the household remedy for all diseases of the KIDNEYS, BLADDER and URINARY ORGANS, and SEMINAL WEAKNESS. It seems to have a direct affinity for the GENITO-URINARY ORGANS and their surroundings and cures them by its alterative healing and balsamic properties more effectually than any other known remedy.

It is an invaluable remedy for all diseases of the mucous and serous membranes, such as BRONCHITIS, HACKING COUGH, NAUSEA DURING PREGNANCY, DYSPEPSIA, LEUCORRHŒA, etc.

This preparation is the result of Dr Coleman's experiments with the medicinal properties of the tree in the U S Marine Hospital in San Francisco in 1871 and 1872 where he had unusual facilities for testing the various methods of preparing the remedy and its uses. It can be relied upon as certain to give the prompted results and hundreds of testimonials of its efficacy can be seen at his office 405 Kearney street San Francisco.

COLEMAN'S DOUBLE EXTRACT OF EUCALYPTUS is a powerful yet harmless febrifuge and is a special preparation for the treatment of the malarious fevers of our interior valleys and is warranted to cure any case of FEVER AND AGUE treated with it according to directions while the baneful results of the usual Quinine and arsenical remedies of those diseases are entirely avoided.

ENGLISH COURT COURTESIES.

A LIVELY BOUT AT THE TICHBORNE TRIAL

During the progress of the Tichborne trial recently Mr Kenealy counsel for the defense asked the witness whether he had not been promised money by the parties opposed to the claimants and had to admit that in February 1867 one Mr Bowker agent for the Tichborne family had promised him payment and that he (the witness) stated in a letter identified as having been written by him Then came off this singular colloquy:

Mr Kenealy—Now sir, what did you mean by saying that Mr Bowker had promised you nothing?

The Lord Chief Justice what do you mean sir by suggesting that he done so? There is no foundation for the suggestion in the letter And you have not even asked the question what the money was to be paid for?

The witness being asked said it was for wages due him from Sir Alfred

The Lord Chief Justice said it was a most unwarrantable imputation to cast upon a professional man without the least foundation

Mr K[illegible]—How could I know there was none?

The Lord Chief Justice—You ought to have known, sir before you suggested it.

Mr Kenealy—How could I know it?

The Lord Chief Justice—By asking the question, sir The character of a [illegible] man is not to be traduced in this way without the least pretense or foundation for it

Mr. Kenealy—I must exer[illegible] my own judgment, my lord. [illegible]

The Lord Chief Justice—And I shall exercise mine in rebuking counsel when they abuse their privilege

Mr. K[illegible]ly—You may rebuke my lord; but I must do my duty to my client

The Lord Chief Justice—You have no right, sir, to make imputations without foundation

Mr. K[illegible]ly—My lord, I say there was foundation for it in this letter

The Lord Chief Justice—On the contrary, [illegible] none.

Mr Kenealy—The letter says Mr Bowker had promised to pay him money due to him

The Lord Chief J[illegible] already due to him, not money promised to him on account of this case.

Mr Kenealy—There is an allusion to the Tichborne case.

The Lord Chief Justice—After the reference to the money due, there was no foundation for the imputation

Mr Kenealy—I must do my duty to my client, my lord, and will not be put down by you.

[illegible] do it by throwing imputations without foundation?

Mr K[illegible]—I say there was foundation for it.

The Lord Chief Justice—And I say there was none, but pursue your cross-examination.

Here the Chief Justice pounces down upon the [illegible] he berates in a [illegible] not [illegible] in any court of [illegible] a hair's breadth of giving him the lie.

K[illegible]ly—There is foundation for imputation [illegible]

And Cockburn wrathfully responds "And I say there was none."

A PAIR OF [illegible]

[illegible] The little old theatre [illegible] the scene of many [illegible]. On one occasion Mr. Edwin Forrest [illegible] then a young man and more famous for his [illegible] than his genius, gave a tremendous display of [illegible] acting. He was [illegible] Roman warrior, and to be attacked by six minions of a dastard [illegible]. At the [illegible] Mr Forrest found a great deal of fault with the supers who consented to play the minions. They [illegible] too tame; they didn't lay hold of him, they wouldn't go in as if it was a real fight. Mr. Fo[illegible] threatened, the supers sulked and [illegible] At length the captain of the [illegible] in his local slang, "Yer [illegible]" "All right," rejoined the [illegible], and the [illegible] the little [illegible] Mr. [illegible] was enthusiastically received [illegible] the fighting scene occurred the great [illegible] took the center of the stage, and the six minions entered rapidly and deployed in [illegible] at the cue. "[illegible] him" [illegible] attitude and struck a blow straight from the shoulder upon the [illegible] of the Roman hero; another raised him about six inches from the [illegible] by a well-[illegible] kick, and the others [illegible] in for a [illegible]

For a [illegible] Mr. [illegible] stood astounded, his [illegible] with [illegible], his great eyes [illegible] fire, his [illegible] legs planted like columns upon the [illegible]. Then came the few [illegible] at the end of which one super was seen sticking foremost in the [illegible] drum in the or[illegible], four were having their wounds [illegible] in the green room, and one, finding himself in the flies, rushed out upon the roof of the theater and shouted "Fire!" at the top of his voice, while Mr Forrest [illegible] the curtain, bowed his thanks [illegible] to the applauding audience, who looked upon the affair as a part of the [illegible] "had never [illegible] Forrest act so splendidly"

[illegible], however, the [illegible] acting was upon the part of the supers For [illegible] let us hope that they [illegible] the supers. The hero was Mr George [illegible] known as the Count Johannes. Mr Jones was impersonating the theatrical British sailor (transformed, of course into the theatrical Yankee sailor) who fights a broadsword combat with four pirates and rescues a lovely damsel in distress. By some means or other Mr Jones had offended the free and independent supers who played the pirates, and the [illegible] was a material alteration in the denouement of the drama The lovely damsel was in distress the four pirates were about to bind her and bear her away to [illegible] cave, the feelings of the excited audience were wrought up to the highest pitch when suddenly Mr Jones (as the Yankee tar) dashed upon the scene threw himself before the unhappy damsel flourished his cutlass and shouted "Come on, villains! One Yankee sailor is more than a match for four such lubberly sharks!" "I guess not," replied one of the pirates, and the four of them coolly took the astonished Jones by his legs and arms and, in spite of his desperate struggles, carried him bodily off the stage locked him in the property closet and returning bore off the maiden to their mountain cavern behind the scenes. The curtain fell

REUNITED —A curious marriage took place at Shaftsbury, Vt recently The groom was an old man seventy years of age and the bride was a former wife, from whom he had been divorced for many years. During the long interval he had lived in Ohio where he was twice married and recently returning to his old home he found his first wife had remained single The flame was rekindled and the ancient couple were rejoined after a separation of nearly half a century

Through the kindness of William Sherman United States Sub Treasurer in San Francisco we have been furnished with the following, in relation to transactions in his office Received from the East in July $400,000 in currency forwarded to Tucson Arizona, $30,000 currency balance remaining $[illegible] and received of transfers to Sub-Treasury $[illegible] currency The total amount of currency on hand at this date is $[illegible] Gold to the amount of $[illegible] has been sent East together with drafts for $[illegible] more also $[illegible] in mutilated currency and $[illegible] in Revenue stamps now abolished by law The legal limit of the Mint bullion fund is $[illegible] but the amount has been temporarily increased to $[illegible] for annual settlement.

The Tonnage Question

If the indications seen in present reports of the San Francisco press of the condition of the wheat market and tonnage supply at that port are to be relied on a state of things exists from which Oregon wheat raisers and sellers may derive a hope not altogether without its encouraging features Anticipating another large wheat crop in that State considerable tonnage was early secured to arrive at high rates and every available vessel from all the loading ports was headed for the Pacific Coast. We commenced moving the crop with a moderate supply of tonnage in port Had Wheat come forward as freely as expected vessels would have been got off about as rapidly as new ones arrived However farmers did not send their Wheat to market in any [illegible] quantity for the first six weeks, and the [illegible] for July [illegible] of 35 per cent. in the volume of [illegible] In the meantime tonnage began to ac[illegible] and lay days of [illegible] in port were [illegible] The demand for Wheat became [illegible] unexpectedly high prices. Most of [illegible] cost of Wheat had to be taken from vessels and freights have gradually declined without, however, producing much business. Those having vessels for charter have steadily resisted this weakening tendency Most of the vessels which have lately come into port were chartered before arrival Exclusive of steamers and coasters there were on the 22d inst. about 50 000 tons of tonnage in port, of which 30,000 tons is under engagement, including 20 000 tons for Wheat. Present inward bound fleet numbers 162 vessels, representing 15[illegible] 000 tons of [illegible] These vessels hail from upward of forty different ports in the United States Europe Central and South America, Mexico Australasia, British Columbia, China, Japan East Indies and Pacific Islands. Of the 74 vessels en route from domestic Atlantic and European ports not over 10 are now due All the others hail from ports in the Pacific Ocean and are liable to drop in at any time, the average passage from most of the ports being from 50 to 70 days. The entire fleet will be here by the close of the year The tonnage supply for the next four months will therefore approximate 200,000 tons. If the Wheat crop be as light as some predict, we may look for a strong grain market and a weak freight market during the next four months

The above facts collected from our latest exchanges, show that freights are likely to be offered in that market lower than was anticipated and should further reports of short crops in our sister State confirm those already received we have but little doubt that charters to come here to load can be secured at a rate which will allow producers a very fair price for their grain and at the same time give exporters a living margin on their investment [illegible] a few weeks ago, the hour of California's adversity will [illegible] and while we regret the misfortune which brings the result about, we cannot but feel cheered at the result itself

W[illegible] Crops of Europe.

The Moniteur des Interests Materials, under date of Paris, July 27 1873, says

The following Wheat [illegible] for the nine months [illegible] with September, 1872 and ending with May 31 1873 [illegible] by the Minister of Agriculture, are of [illegible] at a time when in Germany Wheat consumption threatens to largely outrun its production permanently

	Exports (Qrs.)	I[illegible]ts (Qrs.)
September, 1872	310,196	171,022
October	413,882	110,800
November	249 456	20 711
December	182,149	47 422
January 1873	120 194	31 531
February and March	241 942	414 917
April	119,531	183,412
May	92,110	191 344
Totals	1 729 457	1 108 139

From September to February the excess of exports was 814,677 qrs, but from that time to May, inclusive France bought 741 677 qrs, or 289 000 qrs more than she sold.

The Constitutionnel of Paris July 26th, gives the following recent summary of the prospects of the crops in Europe

In France the heat of the last few days has gone far to undo the evil effect of the floods of last autumn and the heavy [illegible] rains of the spring and there is now the promise of an abundant harvest of excellent quality. In the north, where the excessive moisture excited grave anxiety the wheat crop is magnificent. In some parts of the East, unfortunately the storms and fierce southwest winds have laid the grain, and done great damage by breaking the stems. England and Belgium [illegible] reassured and are no longer haunted by the apprehensions that prevailed recently owing to the rains and storms. In Hungary and Germany although the cold of April has injured the rye crops, the wheat presents an admirable appearance.

The Journal de St. Petersburg St. Petersburg July 24 1873, thus speaks of a new species of wheat worm in Poland

From a [illegible] many districts of Poland complaints are heard about the [illegible] destruction of wheat crops by a worm whose appearance has become more frequent during the last couple of years penetrating into the root and there taking harvest. The districts Kielce and R[illegible]m the most prolific in wheat production, have been singled out in this instance all the more to be regretted as the wheat there is also the finest The north of Poland will yield an average crop In Lithuania wheat and rye are doing well

Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle

Portland Oregon Aug 22, 1873

MR SAMUEL CORWIN—Sir In justice to yourself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox I am induced to give publicity to the following facts About the 20th of July 1873 I became very unwell having severe pain in my head back and limbs which continued to increase in severity for three or four days a very high fever set in and I began to break out on my face neck and body with what proved to be small pox I procured of Dr Freeland of the Central Drug Store a bottle of your small pox remedy Notwithstanding the severity of the attack I administered the medicine myself not in accordance with accompanying directions but in about double doses In three days all pain and fever disappeared My recovery was extremely rapid notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever which is [illegible] considered fatal in that disease, and it is my firm conviction that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to day I took of the medicine about two and a half bottles more perhaps than was necessary not wishing to discontinue until a thorough cure was effected
